

Dublin UX firm Each&Other scales up with 10 new jobs

Dublin company Each&Other is experiencing rapid growth due to new contract wins and expansion into Germany.

Irish user experience (UX) company Each&Other is to create 10 new jobs, scaling it to 25 people.

Established in 2014, Each&Other is based in Dublin, employs 15 people and delivers research and digital design projects throughout EU, Middle East and US.

The 10 new jobs will be created over the next 18 months to serve international clients, and will include opportunities for experienced UX designers, graphic designers and content strategists.

Strategic UX

Each&Other delivers award-winning digital experiences using a customer-centred approach to product development.

“This is an exciting time for Each&Other as we invest in the German market, our employees and our customers,” explained Brian Herron, Director at Each&Other.

“We already have a track record in Germany, winning business through our Dublin office and delivering major projects for Google, Salesforce and Peloton.

“Executing successful projects requires a strong team made up of various organisational and technical skill sets. Our goal now is to enter the market sustainably and build a strong presence for the long term.”

Each&Other’s clients span technology, finance, government, telecoms, retail and education companies.

“Our people are at the heart of Each&Other and we are looking forward to welcoming 10 new people to our business,” Herron added.

“This growth and investment is testament to our values, our commitment to innovation, and our focus on excellent delivery and service for our clients. We look forward to continued growth in 2021 and beyond.”

By John Kennedy (john.kennedy3@boi.com)

Published: 11 May 2021